WHEN CLASSIC DOESN'T MEAN TRIVIAL
Created as a display typeface in 2012 by Cosimo Lorenzo Pancini, Cocogoose is one of Zetafonts most loved typefaces. A sans serif typeface of geometric proportions, with very low contrast and slightly rounded corners, it was the first typeface to be produced in the Coco series, an ongoing research on the design variation in gothic typefaces through the ages. Cocogoose extreme x-height and ultrabold weight (with regular being comparable to heavy weights of other typefaces), have since then made it very popular for effective display and logo use, also thanks to decorative versions like Cocogoose Letterpress. Since 2016, Andrea Tartarelli has been improving the typeface expanding the original glyph set to include cyrillic and greek and adding extra weights, widths, and italics to the original family range, and bringing Cocogoose to an impressive count of 52 variants.

In 2019, Francesco Canovaro has teamed with Andrea Tartarelli and Cosimo Lorenzo Pancini to create a new variant subfamily: Cocogoose Classic, featuring 8 weights and matching italics. Cocogoose Classic keeps the original design for uppercase characters while developing a new design for lowercase, with a smaller x-height, round dots and expanded open-type features, including positional numerals, alternate forms, and extended ligatures and bringing the glyph count to over 1000 glyphs. Its strong, modernist look makes Cocogoose Classic not only perfect for logos and headings, but also very readable as a text font.

I'd rather live with a good question than a bad answer.
The so-called ‘psychotically depressed’ person who tries to kill herself doesn’t do so out of quote ‘hopelessness’ or any abstract conviction that life’s assets and debits do not square. And surely not because death seems suddenly appealing. The person in whom its invisible agony reaches a certain unendurable level will kill herself the same way a trapped person will eventually jump from the window of a burning high-rise. Make no mistake about people who leap from burning windows. Their terror of falling from a great height is still just as great as it would be for you or me standing speculatively at the same window just checking out the view; i.e. the fear of falling remains a constant. The variable here is the other terror, the fire’s flames.
Nero (Latin: Nero Claudius Caesar Augustus Germanicus) was the last Roman emperor of the Julio-Claudian dynasty. He was born Lucius Domitius Ahenobarbus on 15 December 37 AD in Antium. Nero was adopted by his great-uncle Claudius and became his heir and successor. His mother, Agrippina the Younger, was likely implicated in Claudius’ death and Nero’s nomination as emperor.

During the early years of his reign, Nero was content to be guided by his mother, his tutor Lucius Annaeus Seneca and his Praetorian prefect, Sextus Afranius Burrus. As time passed, he started to play a more active and independent role in government and foreign policy. During his reign, the redoubtable general Corbulo conducted a successful war and negotiated peace with the Parthian Empire. His general Suetonius Paulinus crushed a major revolt in Britain, led by the Iceni Queen Boudica.

Nero focused much of his attention on diplomacy, trade and the cultural life of the empire, ordering theatres built and promoting athletic games.

Nero’s rule is usually associated with tyranny and extravagance. Most Roman sources, such as Suetonius and Cassius Dio, offer overwhelmingly negative assessments of his personality and reign. Tacitus claims that “the Roman people thought him compulsive and corrupt”. Suetonius tells that “many Romans believed that the Great Fire of Rome was instigated by Nero to clear the way for his planned palatial complex, the Domus Aurea.” According to Tacitus he was said to have seized Christians as scapegoats for the fire and burned them alive, seemingly motivated not by public justice but by personal cruelty. Some modern historians question the reliability of the ancient sources on Nero’s tyrannical acts. A few sources paint Nero in a more favorable light. There is evidence of his popularity among the Roman commoners, especially in the eastern provinces of the Empire, where a popular legend arose that Nero had not died and would return.

Nero’s father, Domitius, died in 40. A few years before his death, Domitius had been involved in a political scandal that, according to Malitz: “could have cost him his life if Tiberius had not died in the year 37, since in the previous year, Nero’s mother Agrippina had been caught up in a scandal of her own”. Caligula’s beloved sister Drusilla had recently died and Caligula began to feel threatened by his brother-in-law Marcus Aemilius Lepidus. Agrippina, suspected of adultery with her brother-in-law, was forced to carry the funerary urn after Lepidus’ execution. Caligula then banished his two surviving sisters, Agrippina and Julia Livilla, to a remote island in the Mediterranean Sea.

According to The Oxford Encyclopedia of Ancient Greece and Rome, Agrippina was exiled for plotting to overthrow Caligula. Caligula’s reign lasted from 37 until 41. He died from multiple stab wounds in January of 41 after being ambushed by his own Praetorian Guard on the Palatine Hill. Claudius succeeded Caligula as Emperor. Agrippina married Claudius in 49 and became his fourth wife. By February 49, she had persuaded Claudius to adopt her son Nero. After Nero’s adoption, “Claudius” became part of his name: Nero Claudius Caesar Drusus Germanicus. Claudius had gold coins issued to mark the adoption. Classics professor Joseph Osgood has written that “the coin, through their distribution and imagery alike, showed that a new Leader was in the making.” David Sherrer noted that, despite events in Rome, Nero’s step-brother Britannicus was more prominent in provincial coinages during the early 50s.

The ancient biographer Suetonius, who was critical of Nero’s ancestors, wrote that Augustus had reproached Nero’s grandfather for his unseemly enjoyment of violent gladiator games. According to Jürgen Malitz, Suetonius tells that Nero’s father was known to be “irascible and brutal”, and that both “enjoyed chariot races and theater performances to a degree not befitting their position.”

HOW TO USE FEATURES

All Zetafonts typefaces feature extra glyphs and functions that are available with Open Type technology (works on Adobe software, Word, and newer Os).

Open Type features are activated in Illustrator, InDesign and Photoshop through multiple option checks in the Type → Open Type panel.

The OpenType format makes it possible to incorporate typographic features, such as small caps, ligatures, old style numerals and lining numerals, all within one font file, thereby simplifying font management and usage.

For more information check our FAQ page: http://bit.ly/zetafaq

USE SPECIAL FEATURES AND STYLE SETS

Illustrator’s Glyphs panel provides quick access to a wide range of special characters. With the Type tool, click to place the insertion point, then double-click the character you want to place in the text from the Glyphs panel.

To activate Open Type panel select in the menu: Window → Type → Opentype panel

To activate glyph panel go to: menu → window → type → glyph panel

You can select the stylistic set you want to be displayed
In the package are available the most common file format for every purpose: TTF, OTF, EOT, WOFF, WOFF2

→ Install on Windows 10

Once downloaded, right-click on the file, select “Extract All”. After extraction (or accessing the file at its downloaded destination), right-click on the file and select “Install”. Otherwise navigate to Cortana’s search field on the taskbar, type “Control Panel” and click the corresponding result. With the Control Panel open, navigate to “Appearance and Personalization” and click on “Fonts” in the main window. Here you can Drag and Drop your files.

→ Install on Mac OS

Double click the unzipped font file and Font Book will open a preview of the font. Click “Install Font” at the bottom of the preview.
HOW TO GET THE FONT
In order to use our fonts in a commercial project, you need to pay a license fee that varies according to usage and number of users. Acquiring a license on our website www.zetafonts.com is the fastest way. You will be able to download the fonts immediately after the payment. Our website accepts payments with credit card or with PayPal account, both using PayPal POS that accepts all main credit cards.
